Abstract for LEAP Presentation, October 18, 2013

Austin Terry

“Be Careful Who You Dig For”

My presentation will focus on choosing the proper field school for students who want to go into archaeology. Specifically, I will be presenting on two separate field school experiences, one positive the other not so much, and what made one better than the other. Over the summer I encountered several problems with my field school choice and I am hopeful that other students can learn from my troubles so to not repeat my own mistake.
